

Cookies Policy

Our website uses Cookies to identify you. This helps us to improve the website. A Cookie file is a little file that consists of letters and digits and that is being kept (after your permission) in your browser's files or on your computer's disk space. Our website can store and receive access to some foreign Cookie files that are located on your device or computer. Primary cookies are the files that are stored by us and are used by us only. We use Cookies to make usage of our website easier and better, as well as to provide and improve our services. When using our website you can also receive some foreign Cookies on your computer. Foreign Cookies are the files that are stored by other websites, services and/or foreign companies.

We are not storing Cookies without your permission. The exception is technical cookie files that are strictly required for the work of our website.